Accessibility/Usability

I designed and developed my website so that it is available to everyone, including those with disabilities and impairments. I believe that everyone should have equal access to this website. It is important that equal opportunity is provided to people with different abilities.

Images

In the creation of this website, I have added alternative text to images, so that people who are visually impaired can still have access to information through these images. I want everyone to have access to the visual media that is provided on this website.

Links

The links that are utilized on this website all open in the same window, therefore the "back" button can be used to return to the website. I have contrasted the background colors, and the colors that display the links, so that they are accessible to users with color blindness. The links on this website are currently working and will be monitored to ensure they remain functional.

Structure

I have designed this website with the goal of making it user-friendly, clear, and consistent. The HTML code of this website is designed with a clear structure, so that users with visual impairments can read with an accurate sequence.

Browser Compatibility

The audio and video files that are utilized on this website have been saved in different file formats, so that users can access this site using different web browsers. This website is designed to work for all users, no matter what their hardware, software, or abilities are.
